THE LIFE AND TIMES OF JAMES

MADISON.

BY THE HON. WILLIAM C. RIVES.

(To be Completed in three or four Volumes.)

Mr. Madison's career was octomporary and closely identified with the War of the Revolution, the ardnors labors of the oid Congress, the completion of the Articles of Confederation, the formation and adoption of the Constitution of the United States, the political questions which arose under the administration of Washington, the strengle of parties which terminated in the election of Jefferson over Adams, and the complicated questions of foreign policy which led to the war of 1812—a war commenced and terminated under his own administration. In passing under review these great seems of our history, the writer has been enabled, by access to the papers of Mr. Madison and other original documents, to throw new light upon many debatable passages of the highest and most permanent interest in American annals.

Beside the career of Mr. Madison himself, of which no connected narrative has every set been given to the public, the works will embrea authentic and illustrative notices, founded chiefy on original and unpublished documents, of the most distinguished of his cotemporaries—Washington, Jefferson, George Mason, Patrick Henry, Richard Henry Lee, Adams, Jay, Hamilton, Patrick Hitted to supply yet romaining and important deadoratia in our national bistory, on questions which must over engage the deepen interest of the American people.

HENDRICKSON, BLAKE & LONG,
General Agents, Nos 21 and 23 Ann-st. AN INTERESTING VOLUME. SHELDON & Co. have Just Published;

LIFE IN TUSEANY. By MABEL SHARMAN CRAWFORD.

"A very agreeable, thoughtful, and sugrestive book, to which recent events will lend a peculiar interest. The style of the authories is pleasant and elegant. She has a shrewif faculty of observation, and her speculations are founded upon knowledge and experience. Her sketches of society and customs, contained in this volume, are instructive as well as interesting."—| Boston Gazette. THE SONG OF THE HAT.

With ringletz many and long.
With cheeks like roses red,
A milliner set in her little shop.
Flying her needle and thread.
Stitch stitch! stitch!
On Tascan, Legisors and flat—
And still, with a voice of wonderful pitch,
Bbe same the Some of the Bat.

O men, with children dear!

O mele, with conserve scar.

O widowers without wives!

Forget the woman that's in her grave,
And take the one that survives!

Bleach! bleach! bleach!

While your darlings play in the dirt,
When I ought to be making one a frock,
And snother one a shirt!

And another one a surv.

But why do I talk of freeks.

Or il the ones playing alone I
I've looked on them with such longing eyes
They almost seem my own—
Because I have not any—
Good gracious! that hastands should be so few,
And the women who want them so many!

And the women was want accused many Wish it wish! wish! And try as hard as I can! And what do I wish for! A bed of straw, A creat of bread, and a man. I've a roof and a carpeted floor, Tables and dishes, and chairs—

Tables, and dishes, and chairs-But never a husband home to tea, Or a husband's step on the stairs.

Or a husband's step on the stairs.

Oh, but to breath the breath
That comes through a soft mustache!
To bean my bead on a loving breast,
Without being considered rash!
For only one short hour
To feel as the woman feels
Who has not only a home of her own
But a man to come to his meals.
